When setting up any lesson that deals with potentially sensitive subjects, it's essential to begin by creating a safe, secure learning environment. This will help children feel confident to share their ideas, values and attitudes without fear of negative feedback from their peers. A safe learning environment with clear boundaries also helps teachers to manage discussions on sensitive issues with greater confidence.

Al Kingsley asks how we can promote and deliver safer digital ecosystems in schools and better develop pupils' digital citizenship. The near future looks likely to be one of blended learning approaches, in which online learning will continue to play a key role as pupils return slowly to the classroom. It may be a paradox, but the first thing to be clear on with creating safer school digital ecosystems is that technology is not the key.
