The sad irony is that the Aborigines Welfare Board on the one hand and the Aborigines' Advancement League on the other emerged at almost exactly the same time that Jackson's Track, which for years had been no more than a boggy winding one-lane track with 'pot holes big enough to bury a cow in', 20 was straightened and sealed by the Shire Council. The new road made its way through the Aboriginal camps that had existed, peacefully hidden there, for seventeen years.
