City of God: Faith in the Streets - Sara Miles

On the city of God against the pagans, often called The City of God, is a book of Christian philosophy written in Latin by Augustine of Hippo in the early 5th century AD. The book was in response to allegations that Christianity brought about the decline of Rome and is considered one of Augustine's most important works, standing alongside The Confessions, The Enchiridion, On Christian Doctrine, and On the Trinity. As a work of one of the most influential Church Fathers, The City of God is a corn

The City of God - Wikipedia

The angry wrangling between the two communities prompted Augustine to begin writing The City of God in 413. The first ten books of The City of God, which make up the first part of the work, refute the pagans' charges that Christians brought about the fall of Rome. The first five books deal with the pagan belief that people must worship the old gods to achieve material advantages in this world, including the continuation of the Roman Empire and the supremacy of the city of Rome.

Saint Augustine (A.D. 354-430): The City of God | SparkNotes

In its pilgrim state the heavenly city possesses this peace by faith; and by this faith it lives righteously when it refers to the attainment of that peace every good action towards God and man; for the life of the city is a social life.

CHURCH FATHERS: City of God, Book XIX (St. Augustine)

Faith in God brings rest. Faith, trust in God, victory, and rest correlate. Faith brings rest. Rest because I know my life is in God's hands. Rest because I am winning victory. Where there once was constant battle against the lusts that seemed to rise up without end, victory silences it all. There is an end.
