Human Impact on the Natural Environment:

Goudie, Andrew S ...

Dust storms, produced by the removal of surface materials from the world's drylands, are a vital component of the environment. This is because of their role in biogeochemical cycling, their potential influence on climate, their role in sediment accumulation and their influence on human affairs. This...

Desert Dust in the Global System on Apple Books

This chapter studies the different sources of evidence for reconstructing past environments. The sources are classified into three categories, specifically, terrestrial, marine, and ice-based. It examines the different methods of dating and establishing chronologies that is important to reconstruct Quaternary environments.
