Abstract. The character of urban space is being recreated by changes, which are taking place very fast. Especially buildings that are a part of the complementary development have an important influence on its composition. With the penetration into the historical and compact urban fabric, the complementary buildings are transforming the face of well-known places that often have a rich history which was permanently inscribed in the memory of the inhabitants of many generations.

Mary Ben Bonham Miami University, Oxford, Ohio ABSTRACT: How architects measure light is changing. Human perception of light is ostensibly the reason why spaces are illuminated, yet primary lighting guidelines used by architects measure how much light is falling on a surface, not the distribution of light to the human eye (Cuttle 2011). Recent lighting research related to human visual perception introduces new ideas that, while they challenge the status quo of lighting practice, build on ...
