As for the title "The Loving Husband" this couldn't be further from the truth, it was totally unbelievable that Fran knew so little about her husband either personally or his work! The only character I actually thought was normal was Fran's friend Jo, even the family liaison officer didn't appear to have any backbone towards her job.

The Loving Husband: You'd trust him with your life, wouldn't ...

I really struggled to get through to the end, by which time I didn't actually care who'd killed the loving husband (who, by any stretch of the imagination, clearly wasn't). I felt the protagonist was weak, I couldn't find any redeeming or likeable qualities for me to cheer her on, and none of the other characters stood out.
