Xavier Oberson, Professor, University of Geneva, Switzerland. The financial crisis of 2008 and the emergence of various scandals around the world sparked a movement towards greater transparency with international exchange of information in tax matters. Fully revised and updated, this book considers the emergence of a new global standard, the automatic exchange of information.

International Exchange of Information in Tax Matters

The world of international tax information exchange and disclosure is in a fluid state. In a rapidly globalising world, the question of how to deal with current and historical non-compliance is of increasing significance. Public debate, meanwhile, is often fractious and not always adequately informed.

International Exchange of Information in Tax Matters ...

To enable the automatic exchange of tax information, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has led the development of a global Common Reporting Standard (CRS). This agreement requires financial institutions (in participating areas) to identify customers who are tax resident in jurisdictions other than where their account is held.

Automatic Exchange of Information | NatWest International

International Exchange of information (EOI) is one of the key mechanisms used to achieve international co-operation in tax matters. It involves exchanging tax-related information with our treaty partners that is relevant to the administration and enforcement of each other's domestic tax laws. We only exchange information where it is foreseeably relevant to the administration and enforcement of the domestic tax laws of the requesting jurisdiction.

Automatic Exchange of Information (AEOI) - detecting and deterring tax evasion. Beginning with the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA) in 2014 and additionally the Common Reporting Standard (CRS) in 2016, new international agreements involving a large number of countries have come into force to help tax authorities find and stop tax evasion, especially relating to assets held in countries where the owner is not resident for tax purposes.

AEOI | Barclays

Overview. Exchange of information (EOI) is the cross-border sharing of taxpayer information by tax administrations. A tax administration may ask for specific information on a particular case from another jurisdiction. When this happens, it is known as EOI on request. Alternatively, a jurisdiction may freely offer information it believes to be of interest to another tax authority.
