The faith that Salzberg refers to is trusting your own deepest intuition, having self-confidence, and knowing that doubting is not a sign of being faithless—it is a key to spiritual strength. This is from a Buddhist perspective, but she includes information from other spiritual guides from other belief systems.

Faith - Sharon Salzberg

The faith I describe in this book does not require a belief system, is not necessarily connected to a deity or God, though it doesn't deny one. This faith is not a commodity we either have or don't have – it is an inner quality that unfolds as we learn to trust our own deepest experience."

Faith - Sharon Salzberg

A kind of faith in oneself, emphasizing a love and respect for ourselves. This kind of faith unearths our connection to all people, not a faith used as a tool of making you or I a separate entity. Faith doesn't necessarily require belief, it is a trust. A trust in ourselves through a waking up to who we really are.
