“Our principles bring together these common characteristics that the successful preceptorship programmes today have. We hope they will support all employers to develop programmes that set their newly registered nurses, midwives and nursing associates up for success.”

NMC publishes principles of preceptorship

Preceptorship is a period to guide and support all newly qualified practitioners in the transition from student to autonomous practitioner. CapitalNurse has developed a preceptorship framework that provides a recommended set of standards based on best-practice which all health and social care organisations in London have agreed to.

Preceptorship | Health Education England

The Nursing and Midwifery Council (NMC) defines a preceptorship as 'a period to guide and support all newly qualified practitioners to make the transition from student to develop their practice further'. A preceptorship should be a structured period of transition for the newly qualified nurse, nursing associate, midwife or allied health professional when they start employment in the NHS.

Preceptorships for newly qualified staff - NHS Employers

ursing clinical instruction and evaluation is vital to developing RNs into practice. Nurse precep- tors play an important role in prelicensure nursing programs, in residency programs, in transition-to-practice (TTP) programs, and with newly hired veteran nurses in the unit in which they will work (O’Connor, 2015).

Key Elements to Developing a Preceptor Program

Preceptorship is a term used for a consolidation period following Registration with the NMC. It will help ease your transition back into and develop your clinical practice The aim of the Return to Practice programme is to support nurses on their journey back into a nursing career.

Preceptorship and Return to Practice for Nursing

Preceptorship and mentorship programs are used in the health care sector to educate nurses, enhance their leadership skills, and improve their quality of work life. Recognizing the importance of these initiatives, Saint Elizabeth Health Care sought funding to create an innovative model of
