Example 9.9. Calculate the regression coefficient and obtain the lines of regression for the following data. Solution: Regression coefficient of X on Y (i) Regression equation of X on Y (ii) Regression coefficient of Y on X (iii) Regression equation of Y on X. $Y = 0.929X - 3.716 + 11 = 0.929X + 7.284$. The regression equation of Y on X is $Y = 0.929X + 7.284$. Example 9.10

The multiple regression equation explained above takes the following form: $y = b_1x_1 + b_2x_2 + \dots + b_nx_n + c$. Here, b_i 's ($i=1,2,\dots,n$) are the regression coefficients, which represent the value at which the criterion variable changes when the predictor variable changes.

Multiple Regression - Statistics Solutions

Abstract A class of multiple linear regression techniques is discussed, in which the order of magnitude is constrained among regression coefficients. Each predictor variable is a qualitative variate having some categories which are on an ordinal scale. The criterion variable is quantitative.

Linear Regression - Problems with Solutions

Many of simple linear regression examples (problems and solutions) from the real life can be given to help you understand the core meaning. From a marketing or statistical research to data analysis, linear regression model have an important role in the business. As the simple linear regression equation explains a correlation between 2 variables (one independent and one dependent variable), it ...

Therefore, the equation of the regression line is $\hat{y} = 2.71x + 88.07$. Even though we found an equation, recall that the correlation between x and y in this example was weak. Thus, this regression line may not work very well for the data. For example, for a student with $x = 0$ absences, plugging in, we find that the grade predicted by the regression ...

Multiple Linear Regression Example. Problem Statement. Mileage of used cars is often thought of as a good predictor of sale prices of used cars. Does this same conjecture hold for so called "luxury cars": Porsches, Jaguars, and BMWs? More precisely, do the slopes and intercepts differ when comparing mileage and price for these three brands ...

Multiple Linear Regression Example

Multicollinearity occurs when independent variables in a regression model are correlated. This correlation is a problem because independent variables should be independent. If the degree of correlation between variables is high enough, it can cause problems when you fit the model and interpret the results.
