Intercultural Communication - Businessstopia

1. Intercultural communication is crucial to comprehending the world of today and participating in the world of tomorrow. Globalisation has led to ever-greater centrality of knowledge and information. Different linguistic communities have ever-increasing contact – through migration, tourism, education, and information and media flows yet linguistic and cultural barriers persist.

MA Global Intercultural Communication - UEA

You'll learn how language is used and explore cases of intercultural communication. You will examine the difficulties of translation and how politeness is expressed across cultures. Finally, you'll learn about the controversial issue of language loss and examine the reasons that cause it and its implications for cultural identity.
