Thus, the film is a reflection on subjectivity and on the power of representation. The choice of film as medium potentially unveils new aspects of the interpretation of the 'Glass Houses'in Kosta, and the result is a filmic interpretation of a modernistic building and its relation to the surrounding landscape and to the human being.

Subjectivity : filmic representation and the spectator's ...

The representation of space in film is sculpted from the narrative, a meaningful construction of emotional space within the context of the story. Similar to experiencing a real space, a film's sophisticated language has the ability to transport the audience to the time and place of the story.

Architectural representation and experiencing space in film

Secondly, subjectivity is seen as a thematic field in its own right, including the subjectivity of film and programme makers themselves in self-representation through images and voices.

Subject in Documentary | Screen | Oxford Academic

When thinking about female subjectivity what is the relationship between the experience (and / or the cinematography) of the filmmaker represented in the film; the experience of the spectator evoked by the film (in other words what is represented in the film); and, that of larger social and cultural codes (or culturally determined codes of representation).

(CFP) Female subjectivity and cinematic representation ...

Soon the expanding nationalist ideology and political pressure exerted its power on the (filmic) representation of Roma. A later example that illustrates the consolidation of Romani musician stereotypes is a Hungarian melodrama from the 1940s called Pista Dankó (Hungary, 1941) by István Kalmár. While the subject of this film is not directly related to any politicised musicology debates, its distortions are, however, consistent with them.

The Eastern Narrative and Filmic Representation in ...

The filmic narrative shifts from a documentary depiction of the aftermath of the Hiroshima bombing to a focus upon a woman's personal memories of a series of traumatic experiences that took place in wartime France. The present-day narrative centres upon a chance encounter between a French woman and a Japanese man who remain unnamed.
