These videos, worksheets, online games, and books explores the concept that plants have special parts like roots and leaves.

Parts of Plants And Their Functions

What is the purpose of each of the plant parts? ANSWER. The roots anchor the plant in the soil and help it take in water. The stem holds up the plant and carries water to the leaves. The leaves use sunlight to make food for the plant. The flowers produce seeds to make new plants. Fruits serve as a protective covering for seeds and help the seed get moved somewhere else by an animal (see video about pollination and seed dispersal). What are some parts of plants that you eat?
