In the context of guided reading, it can be helpful for students to work together to form the questions to ask their teacher. Rather than directly answering the questions for the group, however, teachers would do well to encourage the students to work towards finding the answers for themselves, as this not only helps knowledge retention, but improves their reading independence.

“The critical stage in the model [Gradual Release of Responsibility] is ‘guided practice,’ the stage in which the teacher gradually releases task responsibility to the students.” (Pearson & Gallagher, 1983). Guided Practice is the transition phase, where children take more control of their learning and the teacher slowly steps back.
