The basic model says that assets equal liabilities plus owner's equity. In other words, the total assets of a firm equal the total of its liabilities and owner's equity. Furthermore, revenue increases the owner's equity and expenses decrease the owner's equity.

The Accounting Model of Double-Entry Accounting - dummies

The fundamental algebraic equation in accounting is "assets = liability + capital." Capital is commonly called equity. If the only thing you own is a car, and you are making car payments, you can use this formula to depict this particular financial situation as the car's market value = the amount you owe + equity, or $$15,000 = $10,000 + $5,000$.
