The Importance of Seeing the World in Shades of Grey.

Executives who see the world in stark contrasts miss the nuances of situations and are less able to compromise to meet common interests. Joan, a senior executive, wasn't the easiest person to deal with. Although she had many excellent qualities - she was creative, had a great capacity for work and was extremely knowledgeable about the industry - she also had the tendency to engage in drama and in doing so rapidly got on people's nerves.

Mark Sichel, author and psychotherapist, writes, "When the adult starts relying on the words "always" or "never," and seeing the world in black and white terms, they are slipping back to the way they saw the world as a child." In the world of black and white we can become overwhelmed with the desire to find "the" answer.
