Yank, the Army Weekly was a weekly magazine published by the United States military during World War II. History. The idea for the magazine came from Egbert White, who had worked on the newspaper Stars and Stripes during World War I. He proposed the idea to the Army in early 1942, and accepted a commission as lieutenant colonel.

Yank, the Army Weekly - Wikipedia

YANK was one of the most popular publications of the Second World War and is an invaluable source of research. YANK, the Army Weekly, as one former member of the editorial staff put it, was "the authentic voice of the World War II enlisted man." [1] Written by soldiers, for soldiers, YANK provides an almost bottomless well of perspectives from average American servicemen of the Second World War.
