The Lice Poems

The Lice. Born in New York City in 1927, W. S. Merwin was selected by W. H. Auden for the Yale Series of Younger Poets in 1952. In his foreword to Merwin's debut collection, A Mask for Janus, Auden compared Merwin to Robert Graves and praised the collection's technical virtues and awareness of tradition. Auden also pointed out the mythic quality of the poems, distinguishing between poetry in which "the overt subject of the poem is a specific experience undergone by the 'I' of the poem" and ...

The Lice, W.S. Merwin 's sixth and possibly most iconic collection of poetry, was published in 1967, at the height of the Vietnam War. When the book first appeared, some readers shuddered: its confluence of mythology and ugly physical reality struck a nerve with a world shaken politically and environmentally to its core.
